St. Anselm

Our Patron Saint

St. Anselm came from a noble Lombard family and was born in Aosta in the Italian Alps. St. Anselm's mother was a good and pious Burgundian woman, but after her death, his father's violence and harshness finally caused Anselm to flee to France. After several years of wandering, St. Anselm took the Benedictine habit in 1060 at Bec (Normandy), where his illustrious countryman Bl. Lanfrance had started a famous school and soon St. Anselm was outstanding for his learning. Within three years, he was made Prior and after another 15 years, despite his reluctance, Abbot.

As Abbot, St. Anselm had to cross over to England from time to time in connection with his Abbey's English properties, and there he became known and was highly esteemed for his virtues and fearless zeal. So much so that in 1099 he was made Archbishop of Canterbury in the hope that he would be able to cope with the encroachments of King William, the Red.

Many important writings of this gentle Prelate, who was considered the greatest intellectual of the age and a "pattern for all theologians", were composed during his two banishments. They earned St. Anselm the title of "Father of Scholasticism" and "Doctor of the Universal Church" (1720) on account of the deep and lasting influence which his thinking has had upon philosophy and theology.

When the French Capuchin Fathers came to Ajmer, they found St. Anselm as the most appropriate saint to be the patron of their new school. They adopted the Saint's motto for the school "DEO AMABILES ET HOMINIBUS" which means, "Be loveable to God and to man". St. Anselm's Pink City School, Jaipur hopes to make all students always pleasing to God and fellow men.

Reflection: 'O Lord, our God, Grant us the grace to desire You with our whole heart, that in desiring You we may seek and find you, that finding you we may love You, and loving You we may despise the sins from which You have redeemed us'
